5. Few lines about the activity: (Include number of attendees)

Climate change significantly affects every region worldwide, but fragile mountainous ecosystems are particularly vulnerable. The Himalayan region is susceptible to climate dynamics. Climate change is having far reaching and multidimensional impacts on local communities, landscapes and ecosystems in the high-altitude areas. The conference aims to build a synergy between various stakeholders- government, NGOs, climate scientists, social scientists and research community to come up with a comprehensive approach to deal with the threats and challenges emerging thereof. Approximately 350 persons joined the conference in different capacity.
