To Whomsoever It May Concern

Date: 26th September, 2020

I hereby certify that Miss Durrain Desnavi has successfully completed six months (26th March- 26th September) of intensive research and writing internship opportunity at Enroute Indian History. The internship required submitting two well researched articles weekly about Indian heritage and history. Miss Durrain's willingness to learn, explore and understand new research areas was a huge asset to the company. She is an active listener, and a fast learner. In the six months that she interned under my guidance she constantly showed enthusiasm, obedience and a keen interest to sincerely contribute in company's research work.

Her intellectual maturity and historical understanding is reflected in the quality of work she submitted weekly. Her write-ups on topics as complicated and nuanced such as 'Art & Aesthetics of Gond Art', 'The Lost Profession of Punkhwallahs', 'The Endangered Rogan Art', 'Kathputli Theatre of Rajasthan', 'Bagh Print' reflected her deep understanding of Indian art and aesthetics. Miss Durrain contributed more than fifty well researched articles that was circulated and read by over a thousand readers. Her insight into articles such as 'How India Inspired Cartier', 'The World of Mario Miranda', 'The Patna School of Art', 'Kalpana Chawla: The Woman who touched the sky', 'The Lost Princess: Durru Shehvar' brought to readers gems of Indian history.

Along with her undeniable talent and flare for work, she is an absolute delight to work with. Working with Miss Durrain led to healthy discussions, pushing the readership and the horizon of company. She takes constructive criticism in her stride and pushes to be a better version of herself. Her warm and amicable personality will be sourly missed in the workplace. The company appreciates her understanding for history and her generous service for the cause of promoting cross-cultural understanding.

I wish her all the success and luck for her future endeavors.
